WOMEN WON BIG VICTORY

Given Full Representation on National Committee.

CONVENTION APPROVES ACTION

Delegate Representation of Democratic Southern States Cut Down. Familiar Faces Seen at Preceding Conventions Missing at Cleveland. Republican Party Government Passes into New Hands.

(BY WRIGHT A. PATTERSON.)

Cleveland, O., June 12.—Having completed its permanent organization, accepted Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming as permanent chairman and listened respectfully to his address, the Republican national convention turned its attention to the only subject that offered the least excitement—the platform.

The resolutions committee had not agreed on the majority report without a long and warm debate. All night the 16 members of the subcommittee had struggled to come to an agreement on three major questions—agricultural relief, the world court and the Ku Klux Klan. The first named was the most troublesome. Representatives of the farm bloc were not at all satisfied with the plank proposed by their colleagues, but finally were forced to accept what one of them called a "lukewarm compromise."

More than usual interest attached to the committee on rules and order of business, because of the victories won before that body by the women and by those who have been insisting that the delegate strength of the southern states be reduced. Five women, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Mrs. Leonard Woods, Mrs. Manley Foss, Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton and Mrs. Arthur Livermore, presented to the committee the 50-50 plan, giving the women full representation on the national committee and appealed earnestly to the men's sense of fairness. The committee took up the matter in executive session and despite the opposition of Albert J. Beveridge and one or two others granted the request of the ladies. When this was submitted to the convention and approved, nearly every woman in the big hall jumped to her feet and yelled as loud as she could, while the men laughed and applauded.

In cutting down the delegate representation of the southern states, which always go Democratic, the rules committee and the convention did what the national committee was told to do by the convention of 1920 and refused to do. Another new feature is the addition of one national committeeman for each state that exceeds a given Republican vote in the last preceding national election.

Familiar Faces Missing.

The faces of such men as Senators Lodge, Smoot, Watson and others of the senatorial coterie, of Will Hays, of Harry M. Daugherty, of Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, of T. Coleman Dupont, of Charles D. Hilles and a long list of others who filled the speakers' platform at Chicago in 1920, are not seen on the platform at Cleveland. To be sure many of them, the majority, in fact, are present, but they are merely among those present.

Prominent among those to be seen on the platform, and among the few who are generally known, are those members of the president's cabinet who are attending the convention. These include Secretary Mellon, Secretary Weeks, Secretary Work, Attorney General Stone and Postmaster General New. Aside from Attorney General Stone, a newcomer in the cabinet, these men are generally known, by sight at least, but aside from the temporary and permanent chairmen, and some minor officials of the convention, they are about the only ones who are known to either the audience or the newspaper writers. It all marks a new deal in the history of the party, a passing of party government into new hands. The president and his advisers, rather than the leaders in the legislative branch, are in control. What the result of the change is to be will be determined when the votes are counted next November.

State Grand Army Elects.

Warren, O., June 12.—Rev. Edward Burdall of Batavia was elected department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic at its annual encampment here. Other officers elected included M. O. Messer of Warren, senior vice commander; John McClay of Columbus, junior vice commander; Rev. W. H. Welling of Worthington, medical director.

TRUCK MEN HELD UP

Bandits Make Way With Precious Stones Valued at $200,000.

New York, June 12.—Nearly $200,000 in precious stones were seized by bandits, who held up a truck which was hauling the consignment. Twenty-seven packages of diamonds and other precious stones and two packages of foreign watches were stolen.

The bandits, 10 in number, dragged two men off the truck, beat one insensible and kidnapped the other, throwing him off the car seven miles away. The jewelry was being taken from the general postoffice to an appraiser's store a few blocks distant. Patrick T. Keahon, vice president of the trucking company which was transporting the gems, who was on a truck, was badly beaten. Fifteen of the packages, it was said, contained diamonds, 10 contained other precious stones, and two contained watches.

PARTY LOYALTY IS STRESSED

Republican Platform Reaffirms Traditional Policy.

STAND MADE FOR WORLD COURT

Demand Made For Strict Law Enforcement, but Prohibition Is Not Mentioned—Tax Reduction, Economy, Readjustment of Rail Rates, Farm Relief and Other Problems Covered.

Cleveland, June 12.—The Republican party's declaration of principles, as drafted by the convention committee on resolutions, urges the election of congressmen who believe in Republican principles and acknowledge party responsibility, and declares that government functions best when the president is supported by a majority in congress of the same political faith.

This plank is expected to become the official party slogan of the campaign.

The platform also declares for strict law enforcement, upon which it is declared the very existence of government depends. No mention is made of prohibition.

At a short session last night the convention rejected the Wisconsin platform offered by LaFollette's followers and adopted the platform as reported by the resolutions committee.

Other planks call for American adherence to the world court as recommended by President Coolidge; readjustment of railroad rate schedules with a view to encouragement of agriculture and basic industries without impairment of railroad traffic, and enactment of measures to place agriculture on a basis of economic equality with other industries and government assistance in the reorganization of the marketing system and in diversification of crops.

Would Punish Guilty.

Another plank demands speedy prosecution of all wrongdoers in official positions and condemnation of those who "strive indiscriminately to besmirch the names of the innocent and undermine the confidence of the people in the government."

Other features are: Economy—A statement pointing to the accomplishments of the present administration with particular reference to reducing the number of government employees and conserving expenditures.

World Court—A restatement of the Republican position against American entrance or adherence to league of nations. An expression that this government should enter some sort of international court of justice, with an added statement expressing belief in the Harding-Coolidge plan with the Hughes reservations.

Immigration—Praise of the new restrictive immigration bill with no mention of the recent international complications resulting from the Japanese exclusion provision.

Taxation—Belief is expressed that reduction of taxation should be based upon some plan more scientific than the new law. A call for reform in methods of taxation. A declaration favoring the proposal for organization of a tax revision commission to work out with the state governments some means for avoiding overlapping legislation.

Waterways—"The federal waterpower act establishes a national waterpower policy and the way has thereby been opened for the greatest waterpower development in history under conditions which preserve in it the initiative of our people yet protect the public interests."

Veterans' Bureau—A demand that every possible care be afforded disabled veterans.

Merchant Marine—"The Republican party stands for a strong and permanent merchant marine, built by Americans, owned by Americans and manned by Americans."

DOINGS IN OHIO

Two Drowned in Flood.

Mansfield, O., June 12.—The bodies of Charles Paskill, 35, barber, and Joe Bonnar, negroes, were found in the flood debris here. Apparently they were on their way home when overtaken by the flood. The damage to streets and basements can not be estimated yet. Electric light substations are out of commission and the west part of the city is without water. The greatest damage was reported by the American Cigar company, whose basement was flooded, destroying thousands of dollars' worth of tobacco.

Rain Damages Sewers.

Akron, O., June 12.—Thirty-five breaks in sewer mains have been reported to the city service department and a score of street cave-ins and culvert washouts have been reported as a result of the great storm here. The city was without lights and streetcar traffic was completely tied up. Cuyahoga river went over its banks and half a dozen houses were undermined. A washout at Myerville halted Baltimore and Ohio traffic between Akron and Canton several hours.

Store Guttered by Fire.

Cleveland, June 12.—One fireman was injured and a score of families driven from their homes when fire did damage estimated at $50,000 to the storeroom of the Aetna Rubber company. James Gull, the fireman, was knocked unconscious when he ran into a wire while fighting the flames.

New Entry For Governorship.

Columbus, June 12.—Harry Clay Smith, colored, of Cleveland, filed his declaration of candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor at the secretary of state's office here. Smith ran for the Republican nomination for secretary of state against Harvey C. Smith in 1920.

Fruit Grower Dead.

Zanesville, O., June 12.—Max McCann, 66, whose orchards and home are near Irville, died from heart disease. He was president of the county horticultural society and also president of the Home Muskingum Savings bank of this city.

Kills Wife and Self.

Steubenville, O., June 12.—William Thompson, 35, well known resident of Adena, on the outskirts of Jefferson county, shot and killed his wife and then turned his revolver on himself, committing suicide.

Shot to Death.

Bridgeport, O., June 12.—Andy Markovich was shot to death at his home here in a dispute over rent. Ben Montahona, a tenant, fled across the Ohio river, leaving two small children.

Booze Seized.

Cleveland, June 12.—Police seized 176 gallons of what they say is "convention booze" at the home of Herman Mellon, who is held without bail.

ROAD FRAUD ALLEGED

Indictments Returned Against County Officials and Contractors.

Akron, O., June 12.—The grand jury returned secret indictments against County Surveyor J. H. Weaver; T. E. McShaffrey, head of the McShaffrey Construction company, who built the road; Paul Kelly, road superintendent for McShaffrey, and Frank Crooks, former county inspector.

Major General Is Being Pushed by American Legion Group—Ohio Delegation Divided on the Vice Presidential Question—Herbert Hoover and Judge Kenyon Among the Favorites in the Race.

TODAY'S PROGRAM.

Convention called to order by Permanent Chairman Frank W. Mondell. Invocation by chaplain.

Presentation of names of candidates for president in nominating speeches. Balloting on presidential nominations.

Nominating speeches for vice president. Balloting for vice president.

Appointment of committees to notify presidential and vice presidential candidates of their nomination.

Resolutions to be adopted empowering the national committee to fill any vacancies on the national ticket.

Sine die adjournment.

Cleveland, June 12.—With the refusal of Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and others to consider the honor, the race for the Republican nomination for vice president has narrowed down.

Lowden's final refusal by wire led his home delegation and others to abandon their efforts for the former Illinois governor. Senator Borah also has sent in a wire refusal. The field apparently has narrowed to Secretary Hoover, Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work, former Senator Kenyon of Iowa, General Charles G. Dawes, Senator Curtis of Kansas and Major General James G. Harbord. The latter is backed by American Legion men.

Urged in a conference of ex-service delegates and aided by such administration spokesmen as Secretary of War Weeks and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, the Harbord campaign was given added impetus by the Kansas delegation. The Harbord boom swung up alongside that of Herbert Hoover for a finish fight.

Kenyon a "Dark Horse."

The name of Judge Kenyon is still under consideration and threatening as the big "dark horse"—like Coolidge in 1920, according to Republican leaders' plans. Hoover and Harbord will be given a chance to deliver. Should they fail a process of elimination will be followed until a vice president is nominated.

Harbord, a Kansan, and now head of the Radio Corporation of America, is pointed to, because of his varied experiences, as one who would command the support of farmers (he is a graduate of the agricultural college at Manhattan, Kan., and has lived most of his life west of the Mississippi).

The California delegation decided to present the name of Herbert Hoover to the convention for the vice presidential nomination.

There are three distinct groups in the Ohio delegation, advocating a different candidate for the vice presidential nomination.

Senator Fess is for Herbert Hoover for vice president, and is doing his best to line up delegates for the secretary of commerce. Senator Willis thinks the most available man for vice president is Colonel Charles G. Dawes of "Hell and Maria" fame. Representative Nicholas Longworth, although not a delegate himself, is boosting Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas. From the present outlook no attempt will be made to apply the unit rule in the Ohio delegation as regards the vice presidential nomination and each will be free to vote for his choice.

James W. Good, a former member of congress from Iowa, who managed Coolidge's western pre-convention campaign, was sprung last evening, and it is said he has strong support.

Permanent Chairman Mondell in his address to the convention said that President Coolidge had justified the confidence reposed in him since taking up the duties of chief executive. He made an appeal for Republican majorities in congress "in name and in principle," saying that every serious fault of recent legislation would have been avoided had the president had that strength in house and senate.

To Vote for LaFollette.

Cleveland, June 12.—The Wisconsin delegation will vote for Senator LaFollette when the balloting for president begins. Six of the 13 delegates from North Dakota also will cast their ballots for LaFollette.

TO RECOVER TAXES

Franklin County Begins Action Against Insurance Companies.

Columbus, June 12.—This county began action against 16 insurance companies to collect $50,000. The county claims that the insurance companies are delinquent in personal taxes from 1917 to 1922, and contends that the tax duplicate certified to the county treasurer by the county auditor in 1923 is sufficient to cover all these years. Counsel for the insurance companies declares that the duplicate for the years between 1917 and 1922 does not exist and therefore the taxes can not be collected.

The suit to collect the taxes is being tried on the Aetna Casualty Insurance company, on agreement that the decision in this case shall be applied to other insurance companies involved.

INSURGENT IDEAS ARE REJECTED

Cooper Makes Fight Before Resolutions Committee.

Cleveland, June 12.—The world court plank of the Republican platform was adopted by the convention's resolutions committee after protracted debate.

The party loyalty plank, which brought on a fight from Representative H. A. Cooper of Wisconsin, was also adopted by the committee. Cooper was effectively defeated in the committee meeting and despite his protests and demands that the Progressives be informed upon whose authority they were being read out of the party, the plank went through.

Cooper attacked the entire platform in bitter style. He submitted the Wisconsin platform of Senator LaFollette as a substitute. Then Cooper turned his fire on the "party regular" plank of the platform as drafted in the subcommittee. He demanded to know by whose authority such men as LaFollette and other Progressives were being read out of the party under the terms of this plank.

Sensing the danger of an open break, Coolidge leaders on the committee endeavored to calm Cooper by explaining that the plank was not a strict "party loyalty pledge," such as Roscoe Conklin proposed in the Republican convention of 1888. This interpretation somewhat mollified Cooper, but he refused to withdraw his objections.

Scalpers Hit.

Cleveland, June 12.—Scalpers who obtained convention tickets for speculative purposes are in for a heavy loss. There were hundreds of empty seats in the balcony. Agents of scalpers were hovering about the entrances to the hall in the last minute effort to unload. Tickets around the hotels were being quoted at $125.

Cause of Losses to Pea Cannery

Seed of Right Variety Is One of Most Important Considerations.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the most important considerations in the commercial growing of peas for canning is seed of the right variety, as a few plants of the wrong kind may ruin the entire pack, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The Alaska variety, which is the basis of a very large percentage of the acreage used for canning purposes, must be kept reasonably pure if the crop is to be grown at a profit, and no matter how good the seed is otherwise, if there is a small percentage of peas known as Bangallias, the crop will be undesirable for canning because of the discoloration produced by this variety.

Test Samples of Seed.

During the past two years the department has collected samples of seed of canning peas on the open market and grown them side by side in trial grounds; some surprising facts regarding the quality of the seed have been brought out. In 1923 the growing tests of Alaska peas comprised 219 samples, and of these 11 proved to be true to name with no off-type plants. Sixteen samples were off-type only in the slightly greater length of vine, while the production and character of the pods would admit them for canning purposes; 67 samples showed less than 10 plants per rod of row of off-type peas and vines. Of the remainder there were 51 samples which showed from 10 to 25 plants per rod having long vines not characteristic of the Alaska variety. The samples which had more than 25 plants per rod of long vines numbered 39, while 35 samples were either not Alaskas or were so-called "wild Alaskas" or field peas. Of all the 219 samples, 4.6 per cent were high-grade Alaskas, 7.4 per cent showed only off-type vines, and 81.1 per cent had less than 10 plants per rod off-type in character. Of these samples, 94 could be used for canning purposes, but 125 were such decided departures that they could not be successfully handled in commercial plantings.

Results of 1923 Tests.

The results of the tests in 1923 paralleled those of 1922 and it is believed these tests give a good index of the character of the seed being offered to the trade by many seedsmen. The requirements of the commercial growers are very much more exacting than those of the market, gardener or home gardener. The planting of extensive acreages of spurious or off-type Alaska peas has resulted in great losses in the eastern part of the canning area. In some cases the pack has been absolutely ruined by the presence of a small percentage of Bangallias, which discolor the liquid in the cans.

The only insurance against such losses is high-grade seed true to varietal type.

Eradication of Cattle Tuberculosis Costs Less

In the eradication of cattle tuberculosis it is now possible to get better use out of the money expended than ever before, according to the experience of the veterinarians carrying on the campaign for the United States Department of Agriculture. During the past year the average cost per head of testing cattle under government supervision was 35 cents, a reduction of 11 cents from the figure of the preceding year. This reduction, which was brought about largely through the spread of the area testing plan, makes it possible to advance much more rapidly with the eradication work. Most of the areas in which all of the cattle have been tested at one time are counties, and counties free of cattle tuberculosis may now be found in nearly all parts of the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific to the Gulf. Every one of the four corners of the country has at least one free county or one in which a campaign is now being carried on. Up near the extremity of Maine is Piscataquis county; in southwestern Arizona is Maricopa county; Island county, Wash., is free; and work is just starting to make the final clean-up in Dade county, Fla.

Planted in Spring Hairly Vetch Acts as Biennial

Winter vetch is a name sometimes applied by American seedsmen to hairy vetch. The term winter vetch, however, should not be applied to hairy vetch, as it is properly applied to the winter strains of common vetch.

If planted in the spring hairy vetch acts as a biennial and does not mature seed the first season. If the crop is to be kept on the land two seasons spring seeding is advised in the northern states. From 20 to 25 pounds to the acre is a heavy seeding. As a rule only 3 to 5 bushels of seed to the acre are secured, though occasionally yields as high as 10 to 11 bushels have been reported.

Hogging Down Soy Beans

In recent years there has been quite an increase in the acreage of soy beans for hay, for seed, and for hogging down purposes. It is grown much more extensively for hogging down purposes than for hay or grain, but its popularity as a hay plant is increasing as farmers become better acquainted with it.

Pueblo Indians Carry Fetish When Hunting

The favorite hunt-fetish among the Pueblo Indians was the mountain lion or cougar, which they deemed the king of animals. Every Indian carried a fetish when he hunted, and derived his power from it by putting its mouth to his own and drawing in his breath—"drinking the breath" of the image—and praying to it, or rather the animal spirit it represented, to help him.

The ceremony was indispensable at the beginning of a hunt. Then before following the trail the Indian imitated the roar of his patron beast, to terrify and bewilder the game. He firmly believed that without these superstitious ceremonials he would stand no chance at all in the hunt, but with them he was sure to succeed. The animals which were successful hunters themselves were the objects of reverence, and the Indian was careful to invoke their aid, that his own pursuit might be as fortunate as theirs.

The hunter, when he struck a trail, took a forked twig and placed it in front of a footprint, with the fork opening backward. This was to trip the fleeing game.—Detroit News.

Famous Greek Inventor

To the Greek Anaximander of Miletus is attributed the invention of the first navigation instruments. The following account is given: "Mariners had observed that the farther north they went the higher the Pole star rose in the heavens, and Anaximander is reputed to have invented an arrangement of two sticks hinged together, so that when one was held horizontally and the other pointed to the Pole star, the angle they made would indicate how far north the observer was."

Salvo to Conscience

The "Conscience Fund" is a popular name referring to moneys received by persons unknown at the Treasury department. This money is received from persons who have cheated the government. Annually this amounts to a few thousand dollars. For 1923 the amount was $2,804.23. This money is used for miscellaneous expenses.

An Editor's View

The woman who doesn't like this paper because it is no good and never gets anything right should tuck up her underskirt. It hangs down and looks sloppy. The editor of the Economy may not know how to run a newspaper right, but he knows how to put his clothes on so his underwear won't show.—Solon (La.) Economy.

Famous Sundial Broken.

A sundial known as "Nell Gwynn's Sundial," which for years has been in position in the terrace at Lauderdale house, Highgate, England, was broken beyond repair while workmen were trying to change its position, a London dispatch says. There is still in the house Nell Gwynn's original bath, which is much older than the sundial, and was placed there when she was installed in the place by Charles II.

HERRICK REFRIGERATORS

HERRICK DRY AIR SYSTEM REFRIGERATOR

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

Lesson for June 15
THE RETURN AND THE REBUILDING OF THE TEMPLE

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 1:1-11; 3:8-6:22.
GOLDEN TEXT—“Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God.”—Isa. 40:1.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Building a House for God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Love for God's House.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Rebuilding of the Temple.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Significance of the Return.

I. The Return From Captivity Predicted (Jer. 29:10-14).
It seems that false prophets were flourishing in Babylon, telling the people that they would speedily be restored to their own land. To counteract this the Lord moved Jeremiah to send a letter to the captives in Babylon (Jer. 29:1-9). In this letter he advised them to settle down and quietly pursue their regular callings of life and not to be led astray by false prophets.

1. The Length of the Captivity (v. 10). Their coming back was to be “after seventy years.” From Daniel 9:2 it is clear that seventy years means a definite time. It dates from the time when the first company was taken captive among which Daniel was found.

II. The Prediction of Captivity Fulfilled (Ezra 1:1-11).
1. The Proclamation of Cyrus (vv. 1-4). This was not by accident, but that the word of the Lord might be fulfilled (v. 1). God never forgets. What He has promised He will do. It was by divine initiation—the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus. In his proclamation he ordered that all who desired should go back and build the house of the Lord God, and those who lacked this inclination should lend assistance by making gifts of silver, gold and beasts.

2. The Response to Cyrus' Proclamation (vv. 5, 6). The company which returned was largely made up of representatives of Judah and Benjamin.

3. Royal Favors (vv. 7-11). Cyrus brought forth the vessels of the house of the Lord which Nebuchadnezzar had carried away from Jerusalem and placed in the house of his gods. This, no doubt, greatly encouraged the Jews, for there were 5,400 vessels returned.

III. The Temple Rebuilt (Ezra 3:8-6:15).
1. The Foundation Laid. This was an auspicious occasion and was celebrated with impressive ceremonies.
(1) The priests in their apparel (v. 10). The priests' garments symbolized their consecration to the Lord's service.
(2) The priests with trumpets (v. 10). These trumpets were made of silver and were used in calling the people together.
(3) The Levites with symbols (v. 10). These were to furnish the instrumental music of the sanctuary, in accordance with the arrangements made by David (1 Chron. 15:10-21).
(4) They sang together by course (v. 11). This means that they sang to one another responsively. The one company sang, “The Lord is good.” The other responded, “For his mercy endureth forever.”
(5) Mingled weeping and shouting (vv. 12, 13). Some of the older men, who had seen the magnificent and glorious temple of Solomon, which had been destroyed, wept much when they saw how far short the present foundations came from the former temple.

2. The Building Hindered (Ezra 4). The leading adversaries were the Samaritans, a mongrel people, the offspring of the poor Jews who were left in Palestine and the foreign people who were sent into Palestine after the Jews were taken captive.

(1) An unintelligent pessimism (Ezra 4:13). Under the circumstances this was a glorious beginning and gave promise of great things for the future. Therefore it was no credit to the priests, Levites and chief of the fathers to mar this occasion with their weeping.

(2) Worldly compromise (Ezra 4:2, 3). They said, “Let us build with you, for we seek your God.” This is Satan's most common and effective method today.

(3) Open opposition by the world (Ezra 4:4-24). When refused a part in the work open opposition was resorted to.

3. The Temple Finished (Ezra 5:1-6; 6:15). Through the ministry of the Prophets Haggai and Zechariah the people were encouraged to resume the work of building the temple.

IV. The Temple Dedicated (Ezra 6:16-22).
The people were united in this building program and came together upon its completion and solemnly dedicated it to God.

KEEP SMILING.

Success or failure in working out life's vexing problems is largely determined by the manner in which we meet them—whether with the smile of hope or the tear of despair.

Every soul has its full share of sorrow and does not wish to be burdened with the griefs and disappointments that may have come to you and will not welcome the tears you shed in contemplation of dead and buried ambitions.

Every heart, at best, has little enough of joy and will be gladdened by your genial smile, which betokens an optimism showing an exalted faith in the happiness in store in the days to come.

The summit and perfection of all philosophy is confidence in today—that it is the best day and tomorrow will be better if God is good—and God is good. It is this thought which makes the bird sing and the sun to shine, which ennobles labor and defies duty, which cures disappointment and heart-hurt, banishes sorrow and fashions fate. Discontent and self-pity breed pettiness, paresis and paralysis. How much better to smile. Don't face the wrong way—let yesterday alone. If you have made a mistake forget it—nothing worth while was ever built upon useless regret. To err is human and with every error safe is under yesterday's sod, the wise man and woman wipe away the tear bravely and face front. It is only the mentally deficient who eats his heart out for what cannot now be undone.

Forget it—what a saving sanctuary is expressed in this flotsam of the street. Thru forgetfulness hearts are healed, horrors are softened, crimes absolved. Sorrow comes into every life with hurrying years—none can hope to escape its bereavements and its blights—but forget it.

Meanwhile do not fail to learn to forgive. What does all this fighting and hating one another amount to any way? Don't be an Indian whose gross instincts and cold-blooded brutality are characteristics of his class, they never forget because they will not forgive. Let go of the depressing and weakening grievance—wipe the slate clean each day, see to it that no hatred poisons the mind or clouds the mirror of memory. Forgive, forget! smile on! and let the yesterdays alone!

Score One for Employer.

A Kansas City man received four very nice presents on his birthday early this week, a silk shirt, a pair of gloves, and a pair of silk hose. The shirt, given him by his wife, was size 15½—he wears 14½; the gloves, selected by his mother, were size 6—he wears 7¾; the socks, from his brother, were size 12—he wears 10. His employer, however, who has known him more intimately for several years, sent out a box of soft collars which fit him exactly.—Kansas City Star.

Courage.

True courage is a spiritual victory and cannot be marked with a physical label. It is developed and strengthened, as is everything, by exercise. Its index is not in squariness of chin, but in squariness of purpose; not in firmness of lips, but in fashioning the lips to speak the truth; not in depth of chest, but in depth of soul; not in confident tread, but in walking uprightly.—W. S. C.

Social Etiquette in China.

The Chinese send three invitations to guests. The first is dispatched two days before the feast; the second on the day itself, to remind those they expect of their engagement; and the third just before the hour has struck, so as to show how impatient they are to see their friends.

LONG ILLNESS

Miss Margaret Gerhardt Died at Home

of Parents in Jackson Township.
Miss Margaret Elizabeth Gerhardt died at the home of her parents in Jackson township, Thursday morning at 2:10 o'clock. Miss Gerhardt had been ill for a period of ten years. Her death was due to complications.

She was born in Jackson township, January 27, 1897, and was the daughter of George C. and Carrie Kramer Gerhardt.

She attended and graduated from the public schools of this city. She also took a year's course at the O. W. U. Delaware. The deceased was a member of the Trinity Lutheran church of this city. Besides her parents she leaves one sister, Mrs. Hazel Clutts, of Bowling Green, Ohio.

The funeral services will be held at the home of her parents Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Standard time. Rev. G. J. Troutman will officiate. Interment will be in Forest cemetery.

TRIAL DATE SET

Leopold and Loeb Plead Not Guilty When Arraigned.

Chicago, June 12.—Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, 19-year-old college graduates and sons of millionaires, pleaded not guilty to charges of kidnapping and murdering Robert Franks, son of another millionaire. The two youths, who are said to have confessed to killing the 14-year-old boy "for the fun and excitement of it," were arraigned in criminal court before Chief Justice John R. Caverly. An overflow crowd, composed largely of youths, jammed the court room. Judge Caverly announced the trial would open on Aug. 5.

Woman Run Down.

Elvria, O., June 12.—Mrs. A. E. Hale, 54, was killed when the auto driven by her son, Neil, was struck by an interurban car on the Elvria-Oberlin highway.

BULK OF NITRATES MINED IN CHILE

Demand for Fertilizers Is Met by South America.

Nitrates, given prominent place in a recent report by the Department of Commerce listing the most important raw materials for which America now must look to the outside world, make up one of the groups of non-precious minerals with which Nature has been most stingy. Again nitrates have been in the public eye in connection with the Muscle Shoals dam where the government planned during the World war to produce them artificially. Where nitrates come from and why they are of extreme importance in modern civilization are told in a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"For ages man did not realize how keenly he needed nitrates," says the bulletin. "The plants he grew demanded nitrogen as they do today, and their roots foraged for it as best they could. Early farmers and gardeners were not chemists; but they were good observers, and they found that manure added to the soil helped their crops. So, quite without knowing it, they fed nitrogen to them."

Scramble for Nitrogen.

"Manure met the needs of the early farmers; but in recent generations the pressure of population became so great in some countries, such as Germany, that there was grave danger of famine or at least the necessity for importing food, even though the land was kept constantly busy. Scientists looked into the situation and found that every plant that grows takes certain minerals out of the soil, and that, in amounts removed, nitrogen leads all the rest. A ton of wheat, for example, removes from the soil 47 pounds of nitrogen, 18 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 12 pounds of potash, as well as smaller quantities of perhaps a dozen other minerals. It became apparent that manure alone could hardly furnish enough nitrogen to land on which crops grew continually, and from which greater and greater production must be had. The realization opened up the fundamental demand for nitrogen fertilizer—and that put nitrates on the economic map."

"No deposits of soluble nitrogen materials of any importance had been found in Europe, where the greatest pressure was felt, nor in Asia nor North America. But beds of sodium nitrate had come to light in the narrow strip of desert in northern Chile, between the Andes and the Pacific ocean. First opened up in 1920 when the region was under Peruvian and Bolivian ownership, the mining operations did not reach a great magnitude until after Chile annexed the territory in 1880. Since then the world's demand for nitrates has grown so great that by 1913 Chile was exporting between two and three million tons. The World war increased the demand, for nitrate is the chief raw material for explosives as well as for wheat and cotton; and Chile's desert deposits kept the guns of the Allies booming."

Mining the Air.

"No nitrate mines to compete with those of Chile have ever been discovered in the ground of any country. But strangely enough Chile's supremacy has been threatened from the air. Nitrogen is one of the most elusive of the elements. The air all about us is rich in it: four-fifths of the air is nitrogen and only about one-fifth oxygen. But although our lungs utilize the oxygen, we can do nothing with the nitrogen. We breathe it in, and it is expelled unaltered. It bathes metals and minerals and most organisms continually without combining with them."

"Science, however, has gotten its fingers on this elusive nitrogen of the air in the last quarter century, and is able to imprison most of it in forms that make it about as convenient for use in agriculture, industry and war as Chile's product."

"During the war Germany was completely cut off from the Chile nitrate fields and necessity compelled her to develop the artificial nitrogen industry if she were to have enough explosives to keep up the fight. Counting all synthetic nitrates and ammonium sulphate from the coke industry, Germany produced in 1913 nitrogeous materials with a nitrogen content of slightly more than 100,000 tons. By the end of the war the country's output of nitrogeous materials, mostly synthetic nitrates, contained over 500,000 tons of nitrogen. Tremendous plants were built and operated by steam power near coal fields. But most of the precious output went into explosives while crops got one-half their usual ration. In final analysis it was nitrogen starvation that brought Germany to her knees."

"By the end of the war the amount of nitrogen manufactured in Europe and the United States about equalled the entire world production, including Chile's, before hostilities began. If the world now wanted only its present supply of nitrates it might be satisfied from sources wholly outside Chile. But the nitrogen hunger has grown. Each year sees an increased demand, so that Chile is still the important factor. Since, in fact, it supplies the world's deficiency, Chile has the whip hand and the price of the Chilean product dominates the war-time industry."

FORD AND BUICK WIN ENDURANCE TOUR.

El Paso Texas, May 30.—Interest of the whole southwest was centered in the 2000 mile endurance tour by the El Paso Herald and sanctioned by the American Automobile association, which began on May 17th and ended on May 28th. Sixteen cars started and only one dropped out.

Only two cars emerged without a technical penalty honors for the trip going to a Buick light six piloted by R. A. Durie of Las Cruces Buick branch and a Ford driven by R. T. Wilson of the Alamo Motor Co., Ford dealers in El Paso.

The Tour Log sent the caravan from El Paso to Marfa and Pecos in Texas, Carlsbad, Roswell, Carrizozo, Albuquerque and Magdalena in New Mexico, Springerville, Globe, Tucson and Douglas in Arizona, thence back to Silver City, New Mexico, and El Paso. Continental Divide was crossed in two places near Quemado, Arizona and Silver City, the altitude at both points approximately 8400 feet.

Every type of highway was traversed varying from cement and high class graveled highways or Arizona to mountain trails in the northern part of that state, which almost impassable and full of boulder strewn washes and rocky mountainous passes.

In addition to its perfect performance the Ford led all entries on economy, tying the Overland touring on gasoline consumption but using one quart less oil. Both cars averaged approximately 29 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Penalties were placed on cars for stalling motors, repairs and adjustments, refilling radiators during run, adding oil during run, arrival or departure from points ahead of or behind the set time schedule, etc. 12juned1w1.

OHIO DAIRY HONORS

GO TO BELMONT HERD.

First honors in Ohio for dairymen's testing associations go to the Ohio Valley Cow Testing association of Belmont county, with the Barnesville association, in the same county, a close second, announces Ivan McKellip extension dairy specialist at the Ohio State university.

Besides making an average production of 366.2 pounds of butter fat per cow, as against the state association average of 316.5 pounds, the Ohio Valley association includes the highest production herd in the state, considering both milk and butterfat production in herds of more than five cows. Carroll and Ebert's Holsteins produced an average of 15,625 pounds of milk and 530.7 pounds of butterfat valued at $482.59. Feed costs were $157.05 per cow.

Figures for the year ended June 1, just analyzed, show the Barnesville Cow Testing association had an average production of 351.46 pounds butterfat per cow. The high herd in this association belongs to J. Wilmer Hall, Barnesville. His Jerseys averaged 9329 pounds milk and 522 pounds butterfat, valued at $345.91. Feed costs were $157.99 per cow.

The cow holding the record in the Barnesville association is "Majesty's Blyth Girl," a Jersey in the herd of L. J. Taber. She produced 15,108 pounds milk and 658.80 pounds butterfat. Two other cows in Mr. Taber's herd produced over 600 pounds butterfat in the year.

The highest record made in the state last year is that of White Beauty Pontiac Mahomet, a cow in the herd of M. J. Dunn in the Butte Road association in Huron county. Her record is 32,626.3 pounds milk and 1094.2 pounds butterfat. This is the highest official Holstein record ever made in Ohio.

TO SUCCEED MILLERAND

Painleve Likely to Be the Next President of France.
Paris, June 12.—M. Painleve, president of the chamber of deputies, will likely succeed M. Millerand as president of France. The election will be held Friday. Millerand, who for nearly four years was chief executive of France, resigned from office only after exhausting every means at his command to overcome the opposition of the majority of the Left, which finally voted to have nothing to do with any government which he headed. Coalition leaders are confident that M. Painleve will be nominated by the caucus and will be elected by the chamber on the first ballot. The voting is secret, however, and party discipline less effective.

PATHFINDER PROPHECIES

Democratic Candidates Are Surveyed and Their Chances Weighed.

Neither McAdoo Nor Smith Can Defeat Coolidge—John W. Davis is Attorney of Big Interests—Ralston is Too Old and Meredith is Party's Best Bet.

The Pathfinder has some interesting prophecies on the political situation in reference to the presidency.

The Pathfinder says:
"Of course the Democratic national convention isn't going to ask the Pathfinder's advice on whom to nominate for the presidency—tho it could go farther and fare worse. The Pathfinder editors have made a dispassionate study of political causes and effects for many years and they can diagnose a political situation with somewhat of the assurance that a skilled doctor can diagnose a case of sickness. We go on record now as asserting that neither McAdoo nor Smith can be elected. We invite you to cut this statement out, preserve it and hold it to account if we prove false prophets.

"The chances are against any Democrat being elected this year—but that doesn't mean that they should give up the fight or put up a man who is foredoomed to defeat; it means that they should be all the more careful not to make a single mis-play. The Pathfinder has no interest in boosting any political party, faction or individual; it is non-partisan in the highest sense. No Pathfinder editor is ever asked what his politics are, and they have no vote. But the Pathfinder is interested in politics in the sense that it believes the republic's welfare is wrapped up in the maintenance of two big, strong, permanent parties.

"Believing in that American principle and being dead set against minority rule, this paper has always urged each party to pick its very best men as candidates for office. In that way the country is assured of a genuine contest, and then if the people don't vote for the candidate they think is the best for the place no-one can be blamed but themselves. When we say now that in our candid opinion neither McAdoo nor Smith can win, we say it because we want to see a real contest, a fair race and a decisive result.

"Coolidge has every advantage now; possession is nine points of the law and the party that is in power always has the political 'edge' on the party that is out in the cold. Coolidge seems to be a 'man of destiny.' Think of it; he was born on the 4th of July, the biggest day of the year in a patriotic sense. Can you beat that? Shallow people say Coolidge is no politician, but he can cut figure eights around the men who think they are real political leaders. He has held many offices and he has always won; such a man is hard to beat.

"He has the public endorsement of Woodrow Wilson, who, as president, sent him a message of approval for the way he stopped the Boston police strike. McAdoo, tho the son-in-law of Wilson, is well known not to have had his father-in-law's approval. When McAdoo settled down after being in the cabinet he picked California as a home—which was about as far as he could get away from his father-in-law. The American people have an odd way of thinking things out and there are many good Democrats who would refuse to vote for McAdoo because of a feeling that he had for some reason forfeited the confidence of Woodrow Wilson. And then the fact that McAdoo took huge sums of money from the oil barons, movie magnates and other interests under the guise of 'legal fees' is in itself enough to condemn him in the minds of the masses of the people who have to labor a whole year for a sum that would be only small change to a man of the McAdoo type.

"We have reviewed some of the reasons why McAdoo can't be elected. They are no tour reasons but the reasons that ordinary voters would have for refusing to support him. The McAdoo followers and the Smith followers are so hostile to each other that no matter which one was nominated, the other side would 'knife' him. McAdoo is unpopular in the east and Smith is unpopular in the west. This simply means that neither could be elected.

"The duty of the Democratic convention then is to cast about for a man who does not labor under the handicaps of McAdoo and Smith and who would stand a fair chance of election. John W. Davis is an able and trustworthy man, honored and admired by great numbers of men in both parties. He would have made a splendid candidate in any ordinary year or against a radical Republican; but he has the taint of Wall street on him because he acts as lawyer for Morgan & Co., and other big capitalistic interests. No man who has any such connections no matter how fine he might otherwise be could win the election this year; The people are dead set against it.

"Senator Ralston of Indiana, is generally agreed to be the most logical compromise candidate. He is a high class man in every respect; he could carry Indiana, and that's a good start. He has a clean record and nothing can be said against him. His one handicap is his age—he is regarded by many as too old, but he would make a real candidate, who would have a reasonable chance of winning.

"We think Edwin T. Meredith the Des Moines publisher probably has the best chances of all to win. Meredith was secretary of agriculture under Wilson and in that post he displayed unusual ability. He is a close friend of McAdoo and could poll every McAdoo follower. He has no enemies and is recognized as one of the sanest and most broadgaged men in the country. He is a successful business man to start with. Then he is thoroughly acquainted with the problems and needs of the rural people and is sympathetic with those abused classes tho he is free from radicalism. He could carry every state that any other Democrat could carry, and have a fair chance at a number of others, in our opinion. We would like to see Meredith nominated, because we consider him the best man the Democrats could choose; he has a national reputation and a clean record. The west is entitled to have a president, and it will be a long time before it will have a likelier man than Meredith.

"If the Democrats put up a weak man or a man who has made many enemies they will simply swell the vote that Coolidge will get and he will have a walkover. Coolidge is a strong man and the Democrats should put up an equally strong one. We merely mention Meredith as the man we consider the strongest under the circumstances; if a stronger candidate can be found, let him be brought forward."

AMUSEMENTS

The new Paramount picture which opened at the Met theater yesterday, "Big Brother," an Allan Dwan production of the story by Rex Beach, is a bear for thrills; there is not a lagging moment thruout its entire length. This is the greatest of Rex Beach's works, greatest because he wrote it from his heart.

It is an altogether unusual production, in that its depicts graphically just what Big Brother Moyement is endeavoring to accomplish thruout the world—the proper raising of the boys and youths—the future men of the land on whom the destiny of their country rests. It is the story of one "big brother," taken as a concrete example of what is to be generally expected from others the world over.

O, yes, we were so absorbed in the picture itself that we almost forgot about the principals, and that would never do it all, for without the clever acting of Tom Moore, Edith Roberts and Mickey Bennett and the impressive character portrayal of Raymond Hatton the vital theme of "Big Brother" would go for naught, and between both features, we rise to remark once more, we enjoyed ourselves immensely.

FICKARDT'S ROUP AND CHOLERA DROPS

On May 7, 1924, I called on Elmer Doner, Ashville, R. F. D. No. 1, and he told me the following:—

I bought four hundred (400) chicks of a hatchery and while there I bought some tablets to prevent disease or cure them if they were sick. Very soon the chicks began to die, I tried the tablets that I had obtained at the hatchery. I then bought other tablets liquids and powders, all nationally advertised remedies, but none of them did any good and my chicks kept on dying until I had lost 250.

A friend of mine told me of Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops, at that time I had ten sick chicks in a pen separated from the well stock and I really considered them as good as dead.

I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops with all my chicks, both well and sick. Two of the sick ones died, the other eight recovered and I have not lost any others since I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops over a month ago.

I would have probably thought that the disease had run its course if it had not been for the fact that these that were sick recovered, but seeing the sick ones get well has convinced me that Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops cured them.

NEW HOME DEDICATED

Circleville Lodge of Elks Has Home of Which They Are Justly Proud.

Dream of Years is Realized and All Are Happy—Addresses Made by Judge
Charles Dresbach, John G. Price,
William Meyer and C. A. Stribling.

Wednesday was a red letter day in Circleville Elkdom when more than 300 of the antlered herd gathered to dedicate their beautiful home on North Court street.

The visitors were all loud in their praise of the beauty and completeness of the new quarters, and many of the members were freely giving the major part of the credit for this magnificent structure, to Exalted Ruler Walker Baughman, who labored unselfishly in season and out of season to accomplish the purpose. His efforts were crowned with success and he has reason to be proud of this home, erected at a cost of $75,000 and which is a valuable addition to city and county.

Mr. Baughman modestly gives all credit for the realization of their hopes to the loyal work and support of the various committees and of the membership generally.

Judge Charles Dresbach made the principal address at the dedicatory services and it was a masterful presentation of the aims and hopes of the order. Short talks were made by Ex-Attorney General John G. Price, of Columbus; District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler William Meyer, of Portsmouth; Exalted Ruler Addison Minshall, of Chillicothe and Charles A. Stribling, of Columbus.

Mr. Stribling is a former Circleville boy and is the architect who designed the building and who watched it grow from the time the first work was done on the foundation until its completion and dedication.

Mr. Stribling said: "It surely is a great pleasure for me to be able to return to my home town after having lived away from here for fifty years, and to see the many friends gathered here to assist in dedicating this new home for the Elks for which they have worked these many years.

"I surely, as a boy from Roundtown feel much pleased and do appreciate the many kindnesses shown to me in having the privilege of having architecturally made many buildings in your city, and today I am more than pleased to know that your lodge No. 77, B. P. O. of Elks has been fortunate enough to be able to arrive at a time to dedicate their new home, which I feel is a credit to them, and to Circleville, as well as the surrounding country.

"They have in this one of the most modern and substantial homes for their organization that I know of, and the contractors in all branches of work have given them good workmanship and material. And with all the buildings that I have supervised or had charge of, I have never had a building committee who were more interested and devoted more time in getting good results for their lodge and never a committee who were any more agreeable and pleasant to work with. They at all times were working in the interest of their lodge and the lodge should consider themselves under many obligations to this committee.

"I thank this lodge very much for having the privilege of standing before you as the architect for this building, having spent all of my boyhood days in this city, but I find now on looking over this gathering that there are very few left that were here in years gone by, but I still feel that this is my home town and I will always have a friendly feeling for Old Roundtown in the Scioto Valley."

A splendid chicken dinner with all the trimmings was served to more than 300 seated at one time in the banquet rooms in the basement.

At 7:30 o'clock the degrees were conferred in a most effective manner on a class of eighteen candidates.

Worthy of especial note was the conferring of the degree of Thanatopsis by Past Exalted Ruler H. D. Jackson. This "View of Death" was portrayed with such force and solemnity as to make a profound impression on the candidates.

At the conclusion of the work short talks were made by Hon. Addison P. Minshall, mayor of Chillicothe, who spoke on the subject, "The Home." Ex-Attorney General John G. Price of Columbus, who is a candidate for the office of grand exalted ruler of the Elks, took for his subject our flag, "Old Glory." Attorney Max C. Seyfert Jr., extolled the virtues of Mr. Price and said he would make an ideal officer.

Visitors present were: Edward Heffey, R. L. James, Ed. C. Collins, L. J. Thompson, Logan; H. J. Metz, Cincinnati; John G. Price, Arthur S. Burget, Edward B. McFadden, P. M. Ramey, M. E. Washburn, T. R. Bell, H. H. Palm, J. Theodore Kirkendall, W. B. Wilson, C. A. Stribling, Columbus; John Schneider, James Watts, Jim Hannan, Will Greenbaum, Chillicothe; A. McQuade and W. J. Davis, New Lexington.

The music by the Elks' chorus under the direction of Edward Wittich and a violin solo by Loring J. Wittich were features of the meeting.

Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock there will be a public reception for the families and guests of members of Circleville lodge.

In the evening there will be informal dancing, cards, etc. Music by Chillicothe Dance orchestra.

The members of the reception committee are Dr. D. V. Courtright, Colonel C. E. Groce, W. C. Darst, C. C. Chappelle, George E. Roth, H. B. Weaver, Fred L. Fickardt, Irvin F. Snyder and Mayor George M. Fitzpatrick.

Many Kinds of Insects
It is computed that there are five times as many different kinds of insects as there are species of all other living things put together. Seventy years ago, the number of species of insects preserved in collections was about 170,000. Today it is estimated that there are 750,000 sorts, and that without counting the parasitic creatures. In Europe alone there are 350,000 species. Most insects live on trees or plants. There are known to be 450 sorts which make their home in oak trees, and about 200 in the pine. Of beetles alone the varieties exceed 190,000.

Wood Magic

The forest laws in ancient spell
On him who loves her more than well
He can watch the fingers of the breeze
Reach out and out as the raindrops
pass.

His eyes are open, his ears are keen
To what was hidden, unheard, unseen
The busy rustle of young leaves growing.

The great hoarse words of the big winds blowing,
The clinking silver of the moonlight,
The golden trumpets of the sunlight,
He can watch the fingers of the breeze
Reach out and out as the raindrops
pass.

And he feels a touch like a bird's brown wing
On his cheek when the winds in the pine trees sing.
He can hear the poplars talk all night
And he can hear through the star clear light.

Before the sleepy thrushes call,
The drowsy voice in the waterfall.

Surely the forest weaves her art
Round him who gives her all his heart

Turkey Introduced to England 300 Years Ago

Tradition has it that the first turkey was brought to England by one of Sebastian Cabot's chief lieutenants. This is supported by the fact that William Strickland, who accompanied Cabot on several of his voyages, adopted a turkey rampant as his crest on being granted arms in 1551.

At any rate, the popularity of the turkey as the principal item in the Christmas dinner menu has lasted well over 300 years. But if you think that the title "turkey" has anything to do with the country of that name you are mistaken. The bird is a native of North America, where it was discovered by the early Spanish navigators.

Exactly how it got its name is a mystery. Some authorities suggest that the bird christened itself by its constant repetition of a sound that resembles "turk-turk-turk."

When you are tackling your turkey you may like to remind the company that the bird's succulent meat was so highly esteemed by sixteenth century churchmen that, by Archbishop Cramer's orders, only "one dish of turkey coocks" was permitted at feasts and banquets.—London Tit-Bits.

Mr.—Sitting up with a sick friend.
Mrs.—That's the limit.
Mr.—No—there wasn't any.

Quick Service

"Hang it, boy," exclaimed the tenderfoot from the East as the bellboy for a Texas hotel came bounding in on him without knocking, "haven't you got any manners about you?"

"Didn't you ring?" asked the boy.
"Of course I rang."

"Didn't you ring three times?"
"It may have been three, as I was in a hurry for ice water, but that doesn't excuse you for bursting in the door?"

"Beg pardon," replied the boy, as he backed out, "but you ought to read the bell card. It's one ring for the porter, two for the bellboy and three for a gun, and when a guest rings for a gun in this hotel the orders are to get it to him before the other fellow can beg his pardon!"

Picking Them Out

A commercial traveler visiting a Glasgow warehouse made a bet with the manager that he could pick out all the married men among the employees.

Accordingly he stationed himself at the door as they returned from dinner, and mentioned all those whom he believed to be married. In almost every case he was right.

"How do you do it?" asked the manager.

"Oh, it's quite simple," said the traveler. "The married men wipe their feet on the mat; the single ones don't." —Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Rose to the Occasion

A riverside village boasted a post on which was marked a line showing the height to which the river had risen during the time of a serious flood.

"Do you mean to say that the river reached this height five years ago?" asked the astonished visitor.
"Not exactly, sir," replied the village, "but the children were so fond of rubbin' out the first mark that the council had to put it a bit higher so as to be out of their reach."

He Didn't Hear It

A man went up to a pretty girl at the blouse counter of a department store and said with a blush that he wanted to buy a georgette blouse—something very tasty in pink or baby blue.

"What bust?" said the pretty girl. The man gave a start.
"Why," he said, "I didn't hear nothing!"

PATROLMAN SUSPENDED

Officer Thomas McManamy has been suspended from the police force by Safety Director George E. Caskey. Acting Chief of Police William McCrady asked for Mr. McManamy's resignation and it was refused. The order suspending Officer McManamy was issued under date of June 11, and was handed to Officer McManamy following the request of acting Chief McCrady and is as follows:

You hereby are suspended for conduct unbecoming an officer for the following reasons: For inefficiency, neglect of duty, sleeping while on duty disregarding rules of the police department, holding extensive conversations with persons concerning subjects foreign to his work which is contrary to the rules of the police department.

Officer McManamy was the oldest officer on the force. He has the recourse of being heard by the civil service commission. The members of this commission are: James A. McLaughlin, W. H. Mason and George P. Foresman. If the reasons given for his discharge are not proven by the safety director or Mr. McManamy does not appear before the commission, his suspension is made final and he has no other recourse. It is understood that the suspended officer has retained Attorney C. A. Leist and will fight his suspension.
